My Journey: From Receiving Love to Giving It Back

I came to Sai Seva Sangh as a young girl, unsure about my future and searching for a place where I could feel safe and supported. What I found here was not just education, but a family. The care, guidance, and values I received shaped me into who I am today. Every moment—whether in the classroom or in daily life—helped me grow in confidence and strength. I was never made to feel less; instead, I was nurtured with love and encouraged to believe in my potential.

Today, my journey has come full circle. I am now working here as a warden, taking care of the same kind of children I once stood among. When I look at them, I see my own past—their dreams, fears, and hopes. This role is not just a job for me; it is my way of giving back to the place that gave me everything. Being here allows me to guide, support, and stand beside these children as they build their own futures.

“I find true happiness and peace in working here and looking after the students. Their smiles, their growth, and their small achievements bring me a sense of fulfillment that nothing else can. I sincerely invite everyone to visit Sai Seva Sangh in your free time and experience the love and service that fills this place. Some things cannot be explained in words—they can only be felt.”
